LONDON, GREATER LONDON, UK, April 27, 2020 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The global antidepressants market is expected to grow from $14.3 billion in 2019 to about $28.6 billion in 2020 as mental health issues are expected to surge due to the effects of the COVID-19 pandemic making an impact on the global economy. The market is expected to stabilize and reach $19 billion at a rate of about 7.4% through 2023. Rising cases of mental health disorders is expected to drive the growth of the antidepressant market. The side-effects and patent expiry of antidepressant drugs is a key factor hampering the growth of the antidepressant market.

The antidepressants market consists of sales of antidepressants and related services that are used in retail pharmacies, hospitals, and clinics. Antidepressants are drugs that can help to alleviate depressive symptoms, social anxiety disorder, anxiety disorders, seasonal affective disorders, dysthymia or moderate persistent depressive, as well as other conditions. The antidepressant medications available include the antagonists of SSRIs or selective serotonin reuptake, MAOIs or monoamine oxidase inhibitors, tricyclic antidepressants, tetracyclic antidepressants and others.
