

New dates announced for Smart Water Systems 2020

SMi reports: Due to COVID-19, SMi Group's Smart Water Systems 2020 conference has been rescheduled to 15th - 16th September 2020 London, UK

LONDON, KENSINGTON, UNITED KINGDOM, April 28, 2020 /EINPresswire.com/ -- After careful consideration, SMi Group have decided to postpone the Smart Water Systems 2020 Conference in London, UK, which was originally scheduled to take place on the 20 - 21 April 2020. In recognition to the growing health risks worldwide related to the COVID-19 virus, the event has been postponed to 15 - 16 September 2020 London, UK, for the wellbeing of the events' delegates, partners, and staff.

SMi's 9th Annual Smart Water Systems 2020 Conference will provide updates on current projects through case studies from water utility companies such as Anglian Water, De Watergroep, SES Water, DWR Cymru Welsh Water, Thames Water and Oasen plus Ofwat provides insight into their latest strategy on driving change.

The focus for 2020 is Collaboration and how the industry and various utility departments can work together to make the water networks and customer service more efficient. Other key sessions include the recent smart metering trials which have been rolled out across several areas in the UK and Europe. Plus, how AI, IOT and Automated Water Management have had an impact on the industry by improving efficiency and customer satisfaction.
