Since Cannabis Law is relatively new practice area, and the rules and regulations are still emerging, creating a CLE with an expert like Ilya Ross to decipher these laws is especially important.”

Kristin Davidson, founder and CEO of CLE Companion

Ross is a seasoned securities attorney with over a decade of experience at premier securities shops. As a big law veteran, he has worked on over one hundred public securities transactions and filings, including IPOs and follow-on offerings. In 2018, Ross entered the cannabis space to support entrepreneurs, farmers and pioneers in a new industry. He now works exclusively with cannabis clients on all facets of corporate and compliance work, including his most recent work advising LA retail social equity applicants in licensing, enterprise organization and financing matters.

“Since Cannabis Law is relatively new practice area, and the rules and regulations are still emerging, creating a CLE with an expert like Ilya Ross to decipher these laws is especially important,” said Kristin Davidson, the founder and CEO of CLE Companion. “This is a great opportunity for lawyers to learn more about the space, while at the same time satisfying their requirement.”

Davidson added that in the COVID-19 environment, online CLE is a great way for attorneys to complete their requirement “without putting themselves at risk.” Attorneys and firms are also recognizing that using CLE Companion can save them both time and money. This is also true when you compare CLE Companion to other online providers, who must recoup their costs because of their massive overhead for studios and labor.

“Our model is direct to attorney. We eliminate the costs in between.”

CLE Companion's unique approach has been featured in many media outlets.
