I've opened this practice to make dental care accessible to patients who need it most.”

Dr. Katie Alger

Dr. Alger, a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and Columbia University, has spent years practicing patient dental care in both hospital and dental office settings. She's since opened her own practice to help remove the barriers she's seen patients experience when it comes to quality dental care.

“I've opened this practice to make dental care accessible to patients who need it most,” Dr. Alger explains. “I also wanted to bring new technology to the table to give patients the best experience possible.”

The dentist in Springfield uses 3D x-rays, 3D printing, in-house milling, and more to diagnose, treat, and perform procedures comfortably and accurately.
