The Dangerous Truth of Texting and Driving study and infographic to expose startling statistics and extend the company's No Fee Promise and free consultation to victims involved in texting and driving accidents.

“

Distracted driving now accounts for over 3,000 deaths per year, and many of the victims are teenagers who had bright futures ahead of them”

With over 26 years of personal injury experience, Console and Associates has provided more than 6,000 clients with premier legal representation resulting in over $100 million awarded in retribution. Console and Associates worked in partnership with the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) and CM Telematics to develop an in-depth report and infographic exposing the dangers of distracted driving.

“Distracted driving now accounts for over 3,000 deaths per year, and many of the victims are teenagers who had bright futures ahead of them,” states Richard P. Console, Jr. founder and attorney of Console Associates. “The problem is also tragically common, playing a part in one in four car accidents nationwide, and yet the majority of drivers – both teens and adults – mistakenly believe they can text and drive effectively, without putting lives at risk.”

The Dangerous Truth of Texting and Driving infographic reveals the following statistics:

In 2019 alone, distracted driving was reported as a factor in 8.5% of all fatal motor vehicle crashes.

Each year, 3,000 teens die in crashes caused by texting while driving, while 2,700 teens are killed in drunk driving accidents.

Every day, 9 people are killed in distracted driving accidents resulting in 3,285 deaths per year.

55% of teenage drivers believe that they can easily manage texting while simultaneously navigating the road, even though they have little driving experience.

86% of people indicate that they would feel very unsafe if their driver was sending a text message while driving.
