

Book: Leadership with a Servant's Heart earns 4th literary award

America is enduring a perfect storm: COVID-19 pandemic and racial inequality. Leadership is under the microscope. How will we respond?

CLARKSVILLE, MARYLAND, UNITED STATES, June 9, 2020

/EINPresswire.com/ -- A new decade and a new year has ushered in unprecedented despair to the United States of America. The unanticipated COVID-19 pandemic has crossed paths with a well documented, yet often unaddressed, societal ill: Police brutality. This perfect storm, resulting in over 110,000 COVID19-related deaths, widespread store closures, stay-at-home orders, record unemployment, along with protests and demonstrations to influence policy changes, has the world watching and wondering what is at the root of American behaviors, mannerisms, attitudes and divisions. These, and other prevailing issues, result in a plethora of questions about leadership - what works and what does not work?

Your dreams, aspirations and goals are a direct reflection of leadership - how you've been led and how you lead others. Strive to be a good leader, it matters.”

Kevin Wayne Johnson

Leadership with a Servant's Heart: Leading through Personal Relationships (2019), by author Kevin Wayne Johnson, is an independently published best-seller whose target audiences include both the general and Christian marketplaces. In 2020, it has earned four literary awards to include: (1) Readers View Reviewers Choice Awards, First Place,

(2) Christian Indie Publishers Association Award, Business/Finance, (3) Human Relations Indie Awards, Leadership Human Relations, Gold Winner, and (4) eLit Award (Digital Publishing Excellence), Silver Award, Business/Career/Sales, from The Jenkins Group. More nominations to be announced soon. Leadership with A Servant's Heart equips leaders at the front-line, mid-level and senior-level of small, medium and large organizations, including churches, with practical and proven leadership principles and strategies to create a new and dynamic cadre of leaders. The goal is to teach, coach, mentor and share the concepts of leading others by valuing and caring for them. Leaders learn: (a) Part I - The Key to Servant Leadership: Serving Others (b) Part II - The Goal of Servant Leadership: Inspiring Others and (c) Part III - The Result of Servant Leadership: Leading Others.
