“We Are Open” Balloons Are Now Available

Placing clusters of balloons outside your shop will let potential customers know that your business is open in a more effective way than any kind of window sign you can install”

With the current climate where not all shops are yet opened, the “We Are Open” balloons can be convenient to a multitude of businesses, especially to small businesses looking to attract the attention of passersby. “Placing clusters of balloons outside your shop will let potential customers know that your business is open in a more effective way than any kind of window sign you can install”, mentions Csaba Laviolette, president and founder of CSA Balloons.

“Class of 2020” Balloons Are Also Available

To the surprise of the CSA Balloons family, “Class of 2020” balloons have also been in high demand since the beginning of the pandemic. With the official re-activation of their printing machines, CSA Balloons can now offer quality custom “class of 2020” balloons to educational institutions throughout North-America. “Class of 2020” balloons have been requested by several universities, but also smaller colleges and high schools.

Whether educational institutions are planning to host graduation ceremonies later in the year or hosting virtual ones instead, “class of 2020” balloons will certainly add to the atmosphere of the event. “Balloons look great on screen and balloon bouquets are about the easiest diy event backdrops to make”, declares Laviolette.

“Class of 2020” balloons are very customizable. Institutions have the option of including their logo on the opposite side of the “class of 2020” logo, or they can request that their logo be inserted within the existing design.
