At the age of seven, Nicholas wrote his first book, Kayla and Kyle: The Walking Dictionaries Vol. 1 Election Day. Not only is it an Amazon best seller, it has been cataloged in the Library of Congress. His second book, Kayla & Kyle: The Walking Dictionaries: A Puppy Surprise will be released later this summer. What is just as impressive is his MISSION: To help kids in underprivileged communities around the world have access to reading materials through his non-profit organization called, Books Without Borders, Inc.

Nicholas has been featured in several online news outlets such as BuzzFeed.com, Ebony Magazine, Black Enterprise, NewsOne, Face2FaceAfrica, and several more. He has also appeared on major television networks. His most notable appearance was when he was a guest on the Steve Harvey Show and helped the host learn a few new words. Steve Harvey was so impressed with the young author that he donated 555 books to send to Ghana (Africa) through Nicholas's nonprofit organization. He was also honored by the great Whoopi Goldberg on her show, The View.
