

Baggage Screening Challenge released for iPhone, Android, Apple TV, PC & Xbox

FARMERS BRANCH, TX, USA, June 26, 2020 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Magnin & Associates today introduces Baggage Screening Challenge 1.0, their new game for iOS, Android, Apple TV, Windows PC and Xbox, where you can try your hand as an airport security baggage screening agent.

As each bag moves down the conveyor belt into the X-ray, carefully check the image on your screen for prohibited and dangerous items. Press the corresponding button Green, Yellow or Red to determine whether the traveler's bag is clear or will require a secondary inspection.

An optional zoom mode allows you to check the bags on a larger X-ray image. The "?" icon allows you to see silhouettes of the common prohibited and dangerous items.

Work through seven progressively harder day shifts.

Optionally shares your accomplishments with Facebook, Twitter, email, or instant messaging (on supported platforms).

The iOS version is a Universal App which means it supports iPhone, iPod Touch, and iPad, including standard,

Retina, and iPhone X displays. The other versions work on most common Android models, Apple TV, Windows 10 PC, and Xbox One.

The game was produced by Ed Magnin, programmed by Willie Johnson, Jr., custom 3d Models by Daniel Batts, Art Lead Lorenzo Torres, with additional art by Illias Gomez and Collin Porter. Matt Campana created the sound effects. Daniel Batts and Lorenzo Torres are game dev interns from Richland College. Illias Gomez and Collin Porter also attend Richland College through the Dallas ISD, Conrad H-TECH game dev program.

According to Ed Magnin, "Our team, including our student game dev interns, did an excellent job in creating a simulation of a TSA agent checking X-ray images from a conveyer belt full of carry on bags."
