“Itoc is one of those special partners who takes a proactive approach to helping their customers learn in the process of building,” said David Fargo, Product Development Manager at CloudChomp. He continued, “their insistence on providing a clear path to Amazon Web Services is always accompanied by a dedication to helping customers understand the ‘why’ behind every decision.”

CloudChomp acknowledges the complexity in migrations and the frustration customers face when migrating to the cloud. Simplifying the entire cloud migration planning process and helping customers save money on their cloud spend is CloudChomp’s primary mission and growing their C3 Partner network with experts, like Itoc, that can further their outreach with customers, coincides with the CloudChomp customer obsessed mindset.

“CloudChomp is a critical component in the delivery of Itoc’s Cloud Acceleration Program,” said Richard Steven, CEO at Itoc. “We obviously selected an excellent product, but the extensive training and wider investment in time and guidance we've received from CloudChomp has really made this a great partnership. We're very excited to build on our joint success and look forward to the future."
