Leaders in acute, post-acute, payer and technology sectors to connect and collaborate to discover ways to improve continuity of care

JACKSONVILLE, FLORIDA, UNITED STATES, June 25, 2020

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Forcura, a health technology company that enables safer patient care transitions along the care continuum, seeks to break down industry silos and convene health industry leaders and influencers who might not otherwise meet. The Forcura CONNECT Summit will include health industry leaders in the provider, payor and technology sectors looking to connect and collaborate to improve continuity of patient care. Although this has been a longstanding issue, the ongoing pandemic has created a critical need to strengthen these cross-sector relationships and overcome barriers for optimal patient outcomes.

Held on Friday, Aug. 28, the innovative, all-day virtual summit will provide thought leadership content and conversations on the technical, business and clinical aspects of the care continuum. Registration will open in July when the speaker list is unveiled. The nominal $50 fee will be donated to a healthcare non-profit organization.

“Continuity of care is only possible with interoperability, strong business partnership, evidence-based care delivery and a clear commitment to the patient,” said Forcura Founder and CEO Craig Mandeville. “That’s why we are so excited to launch the Forcura CONNECT Summit, which we hope kickstarts and fosters an ecosystem of leading providers and other influential voices collaborating to make an ongoing difference in the post-acute industry.”

The Summit will offer keynote speakers and three main tracks to provide more than nine continuous hours of content. Tracks include:

Patient & Provider Relationship Management – business of enabling continuity of care with key stakeholders

Care Team Collaboration – advances in clinical tools and protocols to ensure seamless patient care
