“We are getting so many excited reviews and testimonials from our customers,” says Hewett. “There are so many acne products out there that just don’t work. Glow is undoubtedly the most effective cream available, and best of all, it starts to work within the first 24 hours.”

Hewett explains that salicylic acid alone is a well-known acne treatment that helps unclog the skin’s pores, but when combined with hemp oil, the results are astounding.

“Hemp oil has anti-inflammatory effects that help reduce the redness and swelling associated with breakouts, whiteheads, or acne,” he adds. “While the salicylic acid penetrates deep into the pores to unclog them, the hemp reduces inflammation of the clogged pores. It’s a powerful combination!”

The addition of hemp oil also helps add moisture back into the skin, which is an added bonus for those who suffer from dry skin after using salicylic acid.

About the Company

New Phase Blends was founded by Dale Hewett, who suffered a spinal cord injury in 2014 while serving on active duty in the US Army. As a result of his multiple surgeries, Hewett went on a mission to discover alternate remedies to some of the harsher medications that many people are subjected to, and New Phase Blends was born.

The company's goal is to produce genuine, quality products for those who are suffering and in pain. Products are organic, with no artificial colors or flavors, and non-psychoactive. Additionally, the production facility has been awarded GMP certification for its high standards, and offers a 100% money-back guarantee on all its products.
