

Docufraud Canada Advises Provincial Court of British Columbia Announcement “Be Prepared To Proceed”

Docufraud Canada an expert forensic examiner is preparing cases for matters relating to the submission of handwriting analysis and signature verification

VANCOUVER, BC, CANADA, July 3, 2020 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Dwayne Strocen, President of Docufraud Canada \(www.docufraudcanada.ca/\) a certified and court qualified expert witness says the Provincial Courts of British Columbia have begun the gradual re-opening for both civil and criminal proceedings. This opening resumes gradually beginning with the hearing of cases remotely and in select locations, in person.

The Province also acknowledges its commitment to increase and improve its access to video conferencing. There is a large financial cost associated with the up-grade including a thoughtful process for the safety of all participants. There are safety issues not only for the litigants but also for juries, attorneys and court staff. Proper planning is underway with consideration to all involved.

B.C. courts have previously approved Docufraud reports and its examiners as a court approved expert witness”

Dwayne Strocen

Preparation for trial and submission of evidence for expert witness testimony is underway at Docufraud. As an expert in the examination of handwriting analysis, signature verification, and altered documents, Docufraud examiners are in full swing in preparation for B.C.’s re-opening.

When called upon to testify for the benefit of the court, Docufraud will present it's court ready reports as they relate to Fraudulent documents and forged contracts, contested wills, employment contracts and Powers of Attorney on behalf of elderly persons.

Docufraud Canada has not been idle during this time of stay-at-home orders. We have continued to act on behalf of attorneys and all Canadians whether represented by legal counsel or not. While our commitment is to aid the B.C. court in an un-biased and impartial manner, we strive to assist all who need our support.

About Docufraud Canada:

We are a Canadian company and one of Canada's premiere certified and court appointed forensic examiners.
