bearing and can be transferred into a degree program.

Of the candidacy announcement Dr. Scott Eidson, President of Apollos University, stated "As we know, the COVID-19 situation has changed everything. As America goes back to work, employers are looking for candidates who have invested in themselves and advanced their knowledge and skill sets. And, per the U.S. Department of Education's ruling, starting July 1, 2020, the face of accreditation is changing and the perceived differences between national and regional accreditation fall away, it is important that all institutions align ourselves with accreditors that support our missions and the goals of the students we serve. It is therefore a privilege and an honor to announce that Apollos is constantly working to meet additional standards of quality assurance and provide the best possible credentials for its current students, our diversified and growing alumni, and our future stakeholders."
