

Healiant Training Solutions Partners with HARTMANN USA to Provide Advanced Wound Care Certification For Commercial Team

Medical Device Leader Makes Commitment to Provide Best-in-class Services in the Wound Care Space by Certifying Entire Commercial Team

TAMPA, FLORIDA, UNITED STATES, July 7, 2020 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Healiant Training Solutions announces its partnership with Medical Device leader HARTMANN USA, a subsidiary of HARTMANN GROUP. This strategic partnership underscores HARTMANN USA's commitment as a leader in the wound care space. The entire commercial staff has enrolled in Healiant Training Solutions' new Advanced Wound Product Specialist program.

This training will provide deep insights for HARTMANN USA's commercial representatives to understand and offer credible guidance to clinicians who serve the wound care community.

"We are so excited to help understand the clinical needs and challenges of our customers through Healiant's clinically validated AWPS educational program." states Todd DeVee, Vice President of Sales at HARTMANN USA. "We've been able to customize our journey by selecting modules and series that fill gaps in our team's knowledge base. Additionally, we felt that it was important to benchmark our team using Healiant's assessment tools before and throughout the life of our partnership with Healiant, so we can measure and quantify the benefits of the program"

Healiant Training Solutions staffs a team of tenured wound care practitioners and experts to create and maintain their training content which ensures their partners stay abreast of the latest information available. This program will result in a full spectrum of benefits that will enable HARTMANN USA representatives to provide enhanced guidance for health care administration. This will arm the commercial team with credible knowledge around wound care.
