and transform their enterprise data searches and applications by tapping into the open innovation and enterprise capabilities of the ThoughtSpot platform.

Sudhakar Kondisetty, SVP, Global Alliances, said, "Enterprises cannot truly succeed at monetizing their data without search analytics. Be it transforming processes, expanding into new markets, launching and selling new products, automating operations, or elevating the customer experience, search analytics is the true enabler to complete digital transformation. But enterprises, especially in highly regulated and data-sensitive industries, are worried about privacy, regulatory compliance, security, and system downtime as they embark on this journey. Our collaboration with ThoughtSpot will help enterprises across industries to address these concerns and accelerate their journey from business intelligence to search analytics. We are also targeting public sector by offering joint solutions to local counties and governments to alleviate many of the business intelligence related challenges."

Toni Adams, SVP, Global Partners and Alliances of ThoughtSpot, said, "As businesses today continue to transform their operations, they need to equip their teams at all levels with the ability to find insights that can fundamentally improve how they make decisions while simultaneously ensuring their data is not compromised. To help clients achieve this balance, we are collaborating with Innova to provide clients – including those in highly regulated industries – with a seamless path to the ThoughtSpot platform that was built with their specific needs in mind."

Innova Solutions will join the ThoughtSpot partner ecosystem, designed to help bring ThoughtSpot platforms to clients via service providers. As part of the program, Innova will deploy and resell the ThoughtSpot platform in its native Falcon or Embrace version, which supports popular cloud data warehouses like Redshift, BigQuery, and Snowflake. ThoughtSpot will work with Innova to speed client proofs of concept, search analytics and BI pilots, staffing of client innovation centers, and other initiatives designed to deliver value quickly.
