1) Ask clearly about the requirements - the nature of the job:

Passion, knowledge, and ethics help us to continually grow and give away the best things.”

The purpose of this is to see if you are suitable for the career you are about to choose from.

+ For example, there are things that need one or more of the following:

+ Needs dexterity,

+ Very often exposed to chemicals that you may have a history of allergies to,

+ It takes a long time (many) hours,

- + Need to invest a lot of money to buy practicing equipment,
- + Requires focused silence.
- + Constantly talking, chatting with guests.
- + Requires constant going out (work from home, to take place)

2) Inquire about money (Tuition, Fees incurred):

- + Tuition exactly how much?
- + Are there any fees during and after the course?
- + Need to buy any more machines or tools in the course?
- + Any arising during practice?

3) Ideas to know about studying time:

- + Accelerated quick learning mode and normal learning?
- + Is there a reservation when there is an unexpected event?
- + What if I can't keep up with the class?
- + Is it possible to re-study to supplement knowledge?

4) About the location (place of study - exam - diploma):

- + Where to study (because there is a student enrollment in one place but study in many other places - renting a classroom)?
- + Is there accommodation support (for remote students)?
- + Are the testing sites and degree sites different from the study sites?

5) Regarding the real value of a degree upon graduation:

- + Is it valid for legal practice (legal certification)?
- + Which organization recognizes it? (Because some places only issue certificates of.

6) What is the specific curriculum?

Prestigious teaching places will have a specific curriculum for students to refer from the beginning, avoiding that teaching problem. This section should ask more about the practice regime in the course (how many sessions, how many samples, ...).

7) What support is available after the course?

You need to ask clearly to avoid losing rights such as:

- + Update new knowledge - supplement old knowledge.
- + Gifts after the course.
- + The right to raise advanced certificates, the right to participate in competitions at home and abroad.
- + Support handling crisis or reputation pr.

At Miss Tram Academy, all students after the course are granted VIP accounts, with the right to study online WITHOUT LIMITATION of more than 500 internal courses (how to manage staff, how to talk - take care of customers, courses on makeup training - tattoo spray - nail - skincare training, ...) - helps develop comprehensive skills for students after the course.

8) Commit in writing:

All information about the course commitment must be clearly and transparently recorded in writing - the contract from the beginning to ensure future benefits.

When things are not satisfied, you rely on the information on the text to work. This is also evidence for you to ask a third party (social networks, forums, lawyers, ...) to ensure your rights.

The above can be said are 8 basic things, very practical that you need to understand when you have enkindled the intention to participate in the beauty profession for everyone. If you still have questions about the above issues or any related issues, you can contact the Miss Tram Academy for sharing and further support!
