

Mona Kulkarni Featured in Exclusive Thrive Global Interview

Recognized anesthesiologist Mona Kulkarni sat down to discuss her extensive volunteer experience and to provide professional insight into the medical field.

SANTA BARBARA, CALIFORNIA, UNITED STATES, July 24, 2020 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Experienced anesthesiologist, Mona Kulkarni was recently featured in an inclusive interview with Thrive Global - a highly popular platform that helps working professionals adopt healthy habits through inspirational storytelling.

Throughout her interview Mona takes the time to discuss her medical background and the factors that influenced her decision to pursue anesthesiology. Having come from a family of physicians, Mona claims that it was her parents that helped build a strong foundation of scientific interest.

After initially starting her career in Los Angeles, Mona now serves as a consultant, including for various non profit organizations like bags2masks, a company that creates and distributes masks to frontline workers.

Mona also shares her opinion on the prerequisites needed to enter the medical field arguing that passion alongside the right attitude will set individuals up for long-term success.

"Your passion for the field will get you through the training process. Learning is continuous, and doesn't stop when you get your degrees. Medicine is a life-long learning process, but can bring the greatest rewards." - Mona Kulkarni
