CHESTER SPRINGS, PA, UNITED STATES, July 30, 2020 /EINPresswire.com/ -- A new state of the art dental office is coming to Chester Springs this fall. Byers Station Dental, located at 241 Byers Road, is giving new life to a historic building in the heart of Chester County. General dentist Dr. Rachel Moon, a Temple University Kornberg School of Dentistry alumna, is excited to bring her years of experience to the new practice and the surrounding community. The practice is scheduled to open in mid-September, and will begin scheduling new patient appointments in mid-August.

Byers Station Dental will offer general and family dentistry services, including cosmetic dentistry, restorative treatment, and Invisalign. Locals may recognize the picturesque office on Byers Road with its signature copper cupola and unique architecture.

"I am thrilled to have the opportunity to participate in the opening of Byers Station Dental. This is a unique situation where a practice is reopening after being idle for some time. It is exciting to be able to provide dental service in the Chester Springs area once again. I am looking forward to meeting new patients as well as welcoming back existing patients from the previous practice." says Dr. Moon.

The team at the new dental practice is excited to not only provide the highest quality dental care to its patients, but also to become a fixture in the Chester County community. Byers Station Dental will focus on providing an elevated patient experience through fun events, giveaways with local small businesses, and will enrich the local community through donations and sponsorships.
