

Co-Founder of RD Heritage Group, Robert Davis Announces Partnership with Aqualung Therapeutics

As a partnership of five family offices, RD Heritage Group aims to solve urgent social and economic challenges and improve lives through their investments.

LAS VEGAS, NEVADA, UNITED STATES, August 4, 2020 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Co-Founder of RD Heritage Group, Robert Davis, is excited to share that his firm will be working with Aqualung Therapeutics to bring in capital and help the company grow as an investor. Robert Davis is committed to a thriving economy and exploring investments in critical issues that foster healthy, sustainable communities.

Standing for great ideas and effective action, investing in Aqualung Therapeutics was a solid choice for RD Heritage Group. Aqualung Therapeutics have identified an upstream pathway and target which is a key activator of inflammatory cascades that increase the severity of multiple diseases. The identified protein and biomarker, extracellular nicotinamide phosphoribosyltransferase (eNAMPT), plays an important pro-inflammatory role in conditions such as Acute Respiratory Distress Syndrome, Ventilator-Induced Lung Injury, Radiation-Induced Lung Injury, Pulmonary Fibrosis, Pulmonary Hypertension, and Chorioamnionitis. The company developed the humanized monoclonal antibody, ALT-100, to target and neutralize eNAMPT.

Through functional genomics studies at Johns Hopkins University, Founder and CEO of Aqualung Therapeutics, Joe Garcia, identified the protein that had a dramatic role in initiating and prolonging unchecked inflammation-- eNAMPT. Leading him to found Aqualung Therapeutics, Joe Garcia is excited about their new partnership with RD Heritage Group, as they will now be able to showcase that this novel therapeutic will not only save lives but reduce overall healthcare costs.
