

Sing and learn Vietnamese at ease with online vocal courses

HO CHI MINH, VIETNAM, August 7, 2020 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Children naturally acquire a language through interaction with people.

That is why Vietnamese children living overseas have a lot of difficulties in learning the mother tongue, even though one or both of their parents are Viet.

As they lack an environment to acquire new words and interact with others, they cannot speak Vietnamese properly. And if they don't learn the language since birth, they will find it more and more challenging when growing up.

SEAMI is one of a few educational centers to offer online music classes with Vietnamese coaches.

SEAMI is an educational center that provides various music lessons on Guitar, Piano, Vocal, and Drum. Everyone can join SEAMI to immerse in a musical world filled with joy and happiness.”

CEO SEAMI

As an ex-pat Vietnamese parent, what should you do to help your children retain their mother tongue?

Teaching them on your own is not a feasible solution as you may be too busy for that. Not to mention the case your partner is a foreigner and you have to speak his or her language at home.

How about letting them take online music classes with Vietnamese coaches?

If you might not know, language learning and music are closely linked. This is because baby brains cannot tell the difference between them. Songs affect how we start speaking a word, and speeches influence our musical abilities.

On top of that, listening to catchy choruses will teach you a wide range of vocabulary along with word order. After a while, you are able to speak the language as a native. That is not to mention the fact that bilingual music helps your brain switch quickly from one language to another. Great!

You see, music is the best way to learn a language and have endless fun. Your kids are able to acquire Vietnamese naturally by learning to sing a song, taking up a musical instrument, and interacting with the coaches and other friends.

The online course is really convenient, especially if you always have your hands full. You don't have to take your kids anywhere. Simply give them a smart device connected to the Internet and they will get engaged in a class. Soon, they will be able to sing a Vietnamese song skillfully.
