Steve DeAngelo is an American cannabis rights activist and advocate for cannabis reform in the United States. DeAngelo a globally recognized cannabis leader who was dubbed “The Father of the Legal Cannabis Industry” by former Speaker of the California Assembly and previous Mayor of San Francisco, Willie L. Brown, Jr. As a pioneering cannabis entrepreneur, activist, author, and on-screen personality, Steve co-founded several iconic cannabis businesses and organizations. Harborside is one of the first six dispensaries licensed in the US. Including Steep Hill Laboratory the first dedicated cannabis lab, Arc View Group the first cannabis investment firm and the National Cannabis Industry Association the industry’s first trade association. He currently serves as Chairman Emeritus of Harborside Inc., a vertically integrated California cannabis company. Steve has a global family of supporters, fans and business relationships advocating for cannabis rights and reforms.

DeAngelo is also debuting on the new Discovery Channel series “Growing Belushi” on the 2nd episode on Wednesday August 26th. The cannabis industry was deemed an “essential “ business like pharmacies during the Covid-19 shut down and now over 60% of Americans favor legalizing marijuana, according to the most recent July 2020 Gallup poll - the highest percentage support ever reported in a nationwide scientific poll. Now TV programming about this very hot topic is blooming on many networks and platforms.

“Growing Belushi” chronicles the ups and downs of the actor, Blues Brother and now farmer’s life, with Jim Belushi facing challenging learning curves and the never ending roller coaster of cannabis cultivation on his legal cannabis farm in Oregon. Belushi & DeAngelo have become fast friends in the cannabis industry and found themselves in Columbia last year at the same time searching for rare seeds of some historic favorite cannabis strains and seeds.
