Long Island is experiencing a huge amount of housing renovations and it's great to be available when the community needs us.”

One-quarter of Americans cannot even park one of their cars in a two-car garage because there is too much clutter, according to the U.S. Department of Energy. Americans have accumulated so many belongings that between 1994 and 2004, demand for self-storage units doubled to approximately 44,000 units today. Vincent B., of Guardian Dumpster Rentals, is excited that the Huntington roll-off dumpster company can be a solution to this issue in the Huntington Township area.

"Clutter is an issue that is overwhelming too many homes on Long Island. You'd be surprised at the sense of relief people find when we haul off the dumpster full of unwanted items they were finally able to get rid of," said Perticone.

With Long Island trying to get out of the recession caused by COVID-19, homeowners are cleaning out and remodeling again. 5000 homeowners were surveyed in a Remodeling Sentiment Report. Those surveyed estimated to spend $114,000 on home improvement projects, up from $80,000 in 2010. This equates to a lot of construction debris that needs to be removed from construction sites and residential homes. The need for roll-off dumpsters, especially ones that fit nicely on the residential driveways in Huntington and surrounding areas, has grown considerably in the last few years.
