ConnexPay's innovative travel payment solution has been integrated into Thomalex's booking engine and related automation tools built for travel companies

Thomalex has integrated ConnexPay's payment solution into its suite of technology products, which are widely used by small and midsize travel agencies.

With technology playing an increasingly critical role in every aspect of the travelers' experience, online travel and travel management companies recognize the need for a payment solution tailored to their modern needs. The strategic relationship with Thomalex marries state-of-the-art payment technology from ConnexPay with Thomalex's online travel technology tools designed to provide travel companies with increased efficiency and profitability.

"We are very excited about our relationship with ConnexPay, as it allows Thomalex to offer customers seamless access to ConnexPay's innovative payment solution, which further improves our robust technology solutions designed for travel companies," said Rastko Ilic, CEO at Thomalex.

"ConnexPay seeks to make it easier for travel companies to integrate into our robust and modern payment API's, and our product integration with Thomalex accomplishes this objective. We are committed to helping small and mid-sized travel companies recover from the COVID-19 pandemic and return to growth through integrating with some of the best and most effective technologies available for the industry," said Andres Rojas, Senior Vice President of Strategic Partnerships at ConnexPay.

Thomalex, Inc. (Thomalex) is a USA based global travel technology services provider with clients worldwide. Thomalex offers an end-to-end SaaS-based online booking tool to small and mid-sized travel agencies, OTAs, and TMCs. Being Accelerate@IATA Alumni, Thomalex aggregates NDC content directly with airlines (currently American Airlines, Lufthansa, Swiss, Austrian, Brussels Airlines, Hahn Air, and soon British Airways, Iberia, Air Canada) at no extra cost for its customers.
