

Shincheonji Makes the News Helping COVID-19 Recovery Efforts in South Korea

Members of SCJ sign up to participate in the second round of convalescent plasma donations to aid the development of a cure for the novel coronavirus.

NEW YORK, NEW YORK, USA, August 28, 2020 /EINPresswire.com/ --

Members of the Shincheonji, Church of Jesus, sign up to participate in the second round of convalescent plasma donations to aid the development of a cure for the novel coronavirus in the Republic of Korea. In the first round of donations, 500 members who recovered from COVID-19 donated plasma in July. This time, it is expected to have over 1,100 members participate in the upcoming week. The donations are made in hopes of the research aiding in the generation of an effective vaccine and treatment. The church congregants are attracting media attention across the nation. Below are several recent media comments and their sources.
