

Twitter, Facebook, and Breaking News Competition Heats Up with Launch of GossipDepot.com

A celebrity gossip and breaking news platform disrupts both social media and news distribution Industry

ATLANTA, GA, UNITED STATES, September 1, 2020 /EINPresswire.com/ -- GossipDepot.com, Antonio James, director of the films Trey the Movie and Resolution Song conducts a soft launch of GossipDepot.com, with an official debut February, 2021. Created by film director Antonio James, the site is intended to serve as a fun, centralized, user-run soapbox for gossip where users post the hottest gossip to include news, interviews and memes of the moment.

“With our soft launch we transform modern media outreach, especially to audience who generally doesn’t consume news. It’s a bittersweet moment, for sure,” remarked James, who had wanted the site to provide a place for socially conscious dialogue. “The positivity we had wanted to foster will come, I believe, but it will have to wait.” The site’s soft launch, to some extent, has been a victim of its own success. A spike in traffic upon launch overwhelmed the nascent social network’s technical infrastructure. James decided to pause the website’s full deployment until its new launch, February 2021, while its being rebuilt. While current and new users can still sign up and have access to the social network aspects of the site, the launch of the New Gossip Depot won’t come until February 1, 2021.

Upon correcting technical problems, James observed that the site's volume around pure gossip was extremely high. He commented, "When the platform's functionality was resolved we focused on why Gossip Depot was so successful. The answer for us was simple, focus on breaking news aggregation. Creating a time machine for all gossip that ever existed. Now, Gossip Depot is like Home Depot, where users can "go down the aisle" and find gossips separated by topics."

The new version of Gossip Depot is a social network like Facebook and Twitter, except users interact with a perfect mix of informative and humorous topics from relationships to religion, to politics and celebrity gossip, to breaking news, community news, memes, trending topics and more, subscribing to their favorite gossipers.

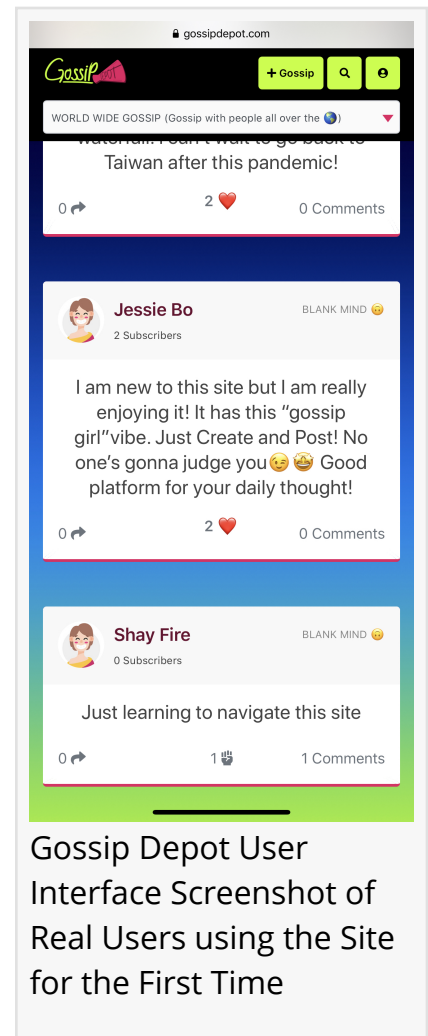

GossipDepot.com features gossips from casual readers, bloggers, influencers, celebrities, journalists, and even politicians. "The mainstream media CNN, Fox News, New York Post, and even fake news all deliver information, yet they all have different views, angles, and truths. With Gossip Depot you get to see all the angles in one place, from all around the world, and on a single feed", explained a Gossip Depot insider, "there isn't anything like it - its revolutionary".
