Lyrics Born is Bay Area Hip-Hop Royalty. As the first Asian-American to release a greatest hits compilation, he's pumped out multiple smash singles throughout his career. From "Callin' Out" and "I Like It, I Love It" to "I Changed My Mind" and "Coulda Woulda Shoulda" his material has always retained a musically eclectic feel.

The self-proclaimed "funkiest rapper alive" carries on his tradition of weaving funk and soul into classic, boom-bap Hip Hop on Quite A Life. Without the influence of icons like James Brown, George Clinton, Bootsy Collins and Zapp & Roger LB admits he wouldn't be who he is today.

Coupled with his love of rap pioneers such as KRS-One, Rakim and Snoop Dogg, LB's music is the perfect Hip Hop and funk-flavored gumbo.

For live shows, LB brings a full band to "keep it all the way funky" for his audience. Coupled with wife/singer Joyo Velarde's powerful voice, the unrelenting energy of his performances electrify every crowd.

Afrolicious is a Bay Area phenomenon. Born out of an eight year-long club night residency at the Elbo Room in San Francisco, the project evolved into an exciting live band performing at top-tier venues and festivals. The Afrolicious sound is eclectic, electric, and funky. It relentlessly grabs hold of the audience and pulls them onto the dance floor. Mixing African, Latin, and percussive rhythms with electronic breaks, club beat, and heavy bass drops, an Afrolicious show is a non-stop dancing frenzy.

As with every Mr. Hat Cruise-In Concert, you may listen in your car via FM radio or you may dance or sit outside on the drivers side in your 15x20' private area, so long as you mask up.
