

NIOSH Approves GH9500 Surgical Type of Great Hawk N95 Respirators with FDA Clearance for Hospital Applications

This is EXCITED news for hospitals and clinics, which enables them to have BETTER options to acquire top quality surgical N95 respirators from now on.

SEATTLE, WA, UNITED STATES, September 2, 2020 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Great Hawk Air Service is pleased to announce that it has received the newest NIOSH approval to its surgical type of N95 respirators, i.e., Great Hawk™ GH9500 N95, which was issued by Mr. Jeffrey Peterson, Chief for Conformity Verification and Standards Development Branch, NIOSH, U.S. Department of Health & Human Services on August 28, 2020.

Meanwhile, the Great Hawk™ GH9500 N95 respirators have been cleared by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) as a surgical mask under 510(K) K020474. This means the GH9500 type of N95 respirators may be extensively used in any hospital / clinical applications not only during the COVID-19 pandemic, but also the coming years after the COVID-19 emergency period/s.
