Of foremost importance during this COVID-19 period is flexibility, safety, and security. Many of the properties are offering complete flexibility and relaxed cancellation policies, which means clients can either rebook for different dates or in some cases, receive full refunds. In addition, there are widespread enhanced cleaning protocols to ensure guests are completely protected. The expert villa team at Exceptional Villas can advise guests of specific protocols which in some cases include extended gaps between rentals for further assurance.

Alexandra Baradi, CEO and Owner of Exceptional Villas, said, "we are thrilled to be able to offer our clients some of the most beautiful rental properties in the United States" It is a wonderful addition to our portfolio. For people needing a much-needed vacation during this stressful time, villas and vacation rentals are a much safer option. The extra space and amenities provide the possibility of continued social distancing in a home away from home. They are the perfect safe oasis. CLICK HERE FOR MORE INFORMATION

One of the critical differentiators between Exceptional Villas and some of the online giants is that their homes must pass a rigorous set of criteria for acceptance in their program. The other is that potential clients only speak to the villa specialist specific to the market the client wishes to visit, and not a call centre. The villa experts match the villa to the client following an in-depth consultation. The company's core beliefs are about exceeding customer service expectations and about putting the truth back into travel. They will always represent our villas honestly and love to impart our local knowledge to ensure our guests arrive at the perfect property.

Exceptional Villas take enormous pride and satisfaction in serving a community of passionate, discerning travellers from all over the globe. Delivering the very best vacation rental properties together with excitement, joy, and world-class concierge service.
