Vitanovas' franchising model allows for rapid growth and constant upscaling in terms of the businesses' service range, a crucial part of growing as a business. As such, Vitanovas has become one of the most rapidly growing companies under the divisions of Global Stem Cells Group, and for good reason. The IV Therapy market is a burgeoning one that offers great opportunity for advancement, and with footholds in both the Old World and the New, Vitanovas is sure to make the most of it.

We're in a great position to begin spreading Vitanovas treatments in Belgium and Mexico-- the demand for preventative health services is greater than ever,”

“We're in a great position to begin spreading Vitanovas treatments in Belgium and Mexico-- the demand for preventative health services is greater than ever, and by offering these with a customizable and direct-to-home model, we are confident in our ability to provide services throughout the duration of the pandemic, and after,” Said Benito Novas, Vitanovas founder and CEO. “With these two franchises, we will be able to bring IV Therapy to Mexico and Belgium, and to their respective people. It's an opportunity that needs to be shared, Vitanovas is a company that has grown because it brings nothing but benefits to both physicians and patients. For patients, they find a much more comfortable experience with the Vitanovas business model of travelling to their home, and because of that our treatments can also be extremely customizable. What's more, the Vitanovas treatment plans have been designed to keep patients out of hospitals, emergency rooms, and doctor's offices.

And physicians are also happy with the growth of the business, as it has larger profit margins, is able to overcome social distancing limitations, and allows them to conduct consultations from the comfort of their own home.

Side by side, the locations of Vitanovas' new expansions. Belgium and Mexico side by side, two beautiful cities that will be the basis for a Vitanovas presence in Europe and Latin America.
