Dong Nai Industrial Garment Company

The company was created back in 1987 and its primary focus is to create easy to use apparel for a variety of different customers. They create casual coats and pants, casual wear, sportswear, and jackets. Dong Nai Industrial Garment Company is known for their casual wear, and they do serve both women's and men's products. On top of that, they are widely regarded for being very dependable, reliable, and easy to work with. On top of that, they focus a lot on Hong Kong, Korean, Japanese, Russian markets and they also have some EU customers. The factory has 11 lines, around 400 employees, and an annual capacity of 300000 pieces. They are mostly specialized in jackets, so that's what they can provide to their customers. That means you can't get many other types of clothing from them and you must outsource somewhere else. If you need jackets done properly, they are one of the companies specialized in that. But there are some things you will miss, so that's definitely something to take into consideration.

March 29 Textile Garment Joint Stock Company

This is a company that creates towels and apparel. They have 2500+ workers and they have been a part of the industry for many decades. Due to their infrastructure, they can create 1000+ tons of towels every year and 8 million garments. That makes them an ideal business for very large workloads. On top of that, they are specialized in shirts, children and sportswear, as well as jackets and casual pants. Like many other companies in this list, they retain a very good reputation and work with overseas clients, which is something to take into consideration. They also have 7 factories, which can alleviate some of the workloads.

Vert Company

Vert Company was created in 2006 and it's known in Vietnam for delivering very good outdoor wear. That limits them to a very specific niche, but at the same time, you will notice that all their products are handmade. Something like that makes them stand out of the crowd, although it heavily limits the number of orders they can take. That being said, their most popular products are trousers, outdoor wear, casual wear, and so on.

They retain multiple sustainability certificates and quality certificates like BSCI and SA8000. The main office for Vert Company is in Hanoi, and they just have a single manufacturing factory in Kim Trang. They also have a dedicated sales office in Bussum, Netherlands that connects them to the European market. That means they can be one of the options if you want to export quality outdoor wear for any store in Europe.
