

United States Department of Agriculture Adopts ExAM4Inspections.com for Dairy Grading and Auditing

USDA: AMS Dairy Grading & Auditing Program chooses ExAM4Inspections.com to support inspection and grading services assure the quality of dairy products.

ARLINGTON, VA, UNITED STATES, October 1, 2020 /EINPresswire.com/ --

Millsapps, Ballinger & Associates (MB&A) is pleased to announce that the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) will leverage ExAM4Inspections.com to modernize and automate their dairy grading and auditing program's compliance processes. This contract builds upon, and is a testament to, the product's success in helping the Agricultural Marketing Service's Laboratory Approval & Testing Division program ensuring the quality of the dairy products Americans use every day.

I am very excited to see our growth within their audit and compliance programs and eager for ExAM4Inspections to bring transformational value to USDA stakeholders, customers and constituents.”

Bradley Hilker, Strategic Account Executive

In more detail, the USDA's inspection and grading services are offered on a voluntary basis, contingent on the approval of a manufacturing plant. By identifying the grade shield on everything from butter and cheddar cheese to instant non-fat dry milk, consumers can verify that the products were produced in a USDA-approved plant. The shield has real market value, as it indicates that every lot has been certified by an inspector to meet the grade requirements. Following a successful inspection, the plant can qualify for sampling, testing, and certification of its products.
