

EDRM to Host New Blog Series by DISCO Chief Innovation Officer Cat Casey

MINNEAPOLIS, MINNESOTA, UNITED STATES, October 1, 2020

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Setting the global standards for e-discovery, the Electronic Discovery Reference Model (EDRM) is pleased to celebrate a new biweekly blog from its global advisory council leader Cat Casey. Entitled "eDiscovery Cat," the blog will focus on lessons and best practices for people learning e-discovery, from 101 to veteran legal practitioners.

"Cat Casey has distilled her decades of e-discovery experience into informative, fun-to-read posts," says Mary Mack, CEO and chief legal technologist, EDRM. "With her trademark humor and engaging graphics, Cat is among the most read e-discovery writers in our space. We are grateful and proud to make her insights available to the global community of EDRM readers."

with bios and is searchable by topic and author.

The eDiscovery Cat installments debut on October 1 and will be available through the EDRM Blog. To hear more from Casey, check out her interview with Mary Mack, EDRM CEO, and Kaylee Walstad, EDRM chief strategy officer, on the Illumination Zone podcast.

About Cat Casey

DISCO Chief Innovation Officer

Catherine “Cat” A. Casey is an established thought leader in e-discovery and data analytics. Casey has more than a decade of experience working with organizations around the complex e-discovery and forensic needs that arise from litigation, expansive regulation and contractual relationships and works closely with DISCO clients as they modernize the practice of law.

Previously, Casey was at Gibson Dunn & Crutcher LLP, where she led the Am Law 200 firm’s global e-discovery and practice technology team. She specialized in e-discovery, data analytics, cybersecurity and information governance. Prior to joining Gibson Dunn, Casey helped run the computer forensics and e-discovery practice at PwC. She also built out the antitrust forensic technology practice and served as the national subject matter expert on e-discovery for KPMG. A graduate of Harvard University, Casey also attended Pepperdine School of Law.
