inspiration and guidance. But who do those executives turn to? Well, one person is you, their trusted EA business partner. So how can you be of most help? In this chalk talk, Geoff Moore will share a framework he learned from one of his favorite CEOs, Marc Benioff. It is called V2MOM (for Vision, Values, Methods, Obstacles, and Measures), and it has proved exceptionally valuable in helping both individuals and teams stay grounded and get connected to their work. Geoff will walk participants through each of the stages of the model and then lead a discussion about how one might draw upon these ideas as we help our executives step up in these trying times.

Mr. Moore will be speaking to what it will take to survive and thrive as business pivots and employee roles change. Most importantly how to Stay Grounded and Getting Connected in a Time of Disruption.
