

Economical Alternative to Disposable Incontinence Underwear for Men.

Men with light to moderate incontinence could save as much as $500 a year vs. disposable briefs.

TAMPA, FL, USA, October 4, 2020 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Washable, reusable premium incontinence underwear products can be more economical than disposable incontinence briefs for men who have light to moderate bladder leakage needs.

The reason is simple. At around $1 each, the annual cost of disposable incontinence briefs can be over $700 for men who are using just 2 disposable pull-ups per day. For example, a couple 4-packs of ZorbWear from Zorbies.com costs under $200, and ZorbWear can last a year or more with normal usage and proper care. ZorbWear's savings over disposables could add up to as much as a $500 a year. Even with this advantage, ZorbWear should only be worn by men with light to moderate needs. Typically no washable can give men with heavier bladder leakage the protection they need.

Saving is a good benefit, but how well it protects is the real measure of an incontinence underwear product for men”

M. Alexander Krzyston

Saving is a good benefit, but how well it protects is the real measure of an incontinence underwear product for men. ZorbWear delivers on that, having important advantages over some comparable products in the reusable incontinence underwear category. ZorbWear boasts 30% more total protective coverage, in large part because of a very generous inner front protective panel. The panel is 8.5” wide, which is as much as 50% wider than some, and that allows ZorbWear to handle leaks even if they don't always go downward.

Beyond superior protective coverage, plus cost savings over disposables, ZorbWear's benefits keep going. ZorbWear also appeals to men because they look, feel and wear like regular underwear. It gives men discreet protection so they can feel comfortable that no one will know what they are wearing.

The ZorbWear line comes in two absorbency levels. LightZorb, the light absorbent underwear line, with six total layers of protection. LightZorb is suitable for men with drips and dribbles. The ModerateZorb products have eight total layers and protect against light to moderate leaks. ZorbWear incontinence briefs for men are available online at zorbies.com, as well as other online stores.

ZorbLock
Zorbies Exclusive Multi-layer Incontinence Protection System

The diagram illustrates the ZorbLock multi-layer protection system with four distinct layers:

- Wicks: The top layer, shown as a black mesh with white dots, designed to draw moisture away from the skin.
- Absorbs: The second layer, a green mesh with circular absorbent spots.
- Manages: The third layer, a green mesh with a white circular pattern, designed to manage and contain moisture.
- Waterproofs: The bottom layer, a dark grey mesh, designed to prevent leaks.

ModerateZorb | 1-Pack

A pair of black ModerateZorb incontinence briefs is shown against a white background. The briefs have a simple, functional design with a waistband and a fly.

The logo for ZorbLock Protection is a green and white shield-shaped emblem. It features the text "Multilayer ZorbLock Protection" at the top, a stylized wave pattern in the middle, and a large number "8" in a circle at the bottom, indicating the number of layers.
