Market Insights

Online grocery market has shown a great surge during CoVID. Online grocery companies advantages such as curbing in between dealers, genuine products and great discounts over the products are some of the major reasons attributing towards the growth of online grocery market.

Even though it has faced lot of challenges due to local grocery market but with time these grocery players are linking themselves with these online grocery platforms. This shifting pattern of dealers in grocery has also attributed towards the growth of the market positively. Also, increased third party websites where one seller can sell their products independently has increased the scope of selling in all regions. North America dominates the market with a share of more than 38.6% in 2020.
