We are happy to make the “Black Friday journey” easier to all consumers, considering the amount of offers and sales discount that are available in this special day”

David Perrenoud

This new website covers most popular product categories and aims to provide a neutral and qualified feedback across a wide range of product categories to consumers.

9Best.Top strategically launched its website a few weeks before Black Friday in order to maximize the reach of their product comparisons to their audience.

“We are happy to make the “Black Friday journey” easier to all consumers, considering the amount of offers and sales discount that are available in this special day”- said Mr. Perrenoud, official speaker of 9Best.

“At the end of the day, we are facing a tremendous amount of offerings, and in order to be able to make an accurate choice you need to be able to compare different products somehow. That’s why at 9Best.top, we make sure our product reviews are transparent and insightful.

9Best.top specializes on the most popular product categories from home to electronics and outdoors; including: cordless vacuums, robot vacuums, best gaming chairs, microwaves, dehumidifiers, smart TVs, 2 in 1 laptops, headphones, and more.

According to Adobe Analytics, last year (Black Friday in USA) up to $ 7.4 billion were spent online.

Which represent a 20% increase from the previous year. Additionally, the average order spent per American citizen was $168.

Furthermore, they take into account the reviews of their experts, however, they pay special attention to the opinions of users who have already bought and made use of those products.

Mr. Perrenoud also mentioned "Last year's Black Friday and Christmas period, the star product and most viewed guide of our portal was the best robot vacuums and best 2 in 1 laptops. We are eager to see what will be this year's trend"

In addition to the already trendy vacuum cleaner robots, 9Best foresees that on Black Friday products like smartwatches, smart TVs and Bluetooth headphones will experience peaks in their sales.

The company predicts that due to the increasing number of models released in the headphones and robot vacuums markets, both of these product review guides will be quite popular during the previous week of Black Friday.

Finally, to know the weekly offers, this website shares and updates the offers of multiple products with the aim of providing users with constant savings on their purchases.
