Which kind of mask should be used?

As recommended by health experts, the dust in the air and viruses might cause many serious diseases that can enter the human body mainly through droplets during communicating activities between people.

Moreover, due to the negative changes in the environment, wearing a mask with UV resistance is necessary also. According to WHO, in addition to skin cancer, UV can cause other health problems such as:

- Creating premature aging of the skin such as wrinkles, liver spots, leathery skin, sunburn, actinic keratosis, and solar elastosis.
- UV can cause eye problems as they create the cornea to become burned and inflamed which leads to cataracts and pterygium. These problems can impair human vision.
- Weakening the immune system and therefore lead to the reactivation of herpes triggered, making vaccines to be less effective.

To sum up, not any kind of masks is suitable to be used. Masks should contain certain requirements to protect human health such as antibacterial, droplets, and UV resistance.

Outstanding features of Dony Mask

Water-resistance

Dony Mask is designed as a three-layer cloth face mask. These three layers give its certain function to create a perfect face mask:

□ Outer layer: This layer gives the mask 100% water-resistance. The mask can prevent droplets clinging to the mask and so that limit viral infection. Every mask made by Dony is produced with layer resistant cloth that is granted Global Intertek Certificate with 100 points. This feature is suitable for consumers in tropical and rainy areas also.

□ Middle layer: This layer works as an air filter. It helps prevent dust, agents from entering consumers' nose and mouth.

□ Inner layer: This layer hinders 99.9% of bacteria and giving the mask the most important feature which is antibacterial.

Antibacterial and droplets resistance

As mentioned above, the three-layer design of Dony Mask gives its features to prevent 99.9% of bacterial from entering the human body as well as droplets of patient saliva spreading in the air.

People usually wear one-time using mask but this kind of mask has one layer which can only prevent dust.

Multiple uses and still ensure important features after 60 washing times

Owning a lot of these outstanding and necessary features but Dony masks are even can be used multiple times. Consumers can wash the mask with water and soap only and the mask is still ensured to antibacterial, droplets, and UV resistance after 60 washes outweigh a lot of competitors in the current market.

This feature helps consumers to save costs also as they can use the mask for a longer time and reduce trash to the environment to compare with other kinds of masks.
