Randy Wright, CEO

Innovations, Inc. (Apollo) is proud to announce that it has expanded its training schedule while providing the safest and most in-depth hands-on PDO thread training led by some of the country’s leading PDO thread physicians.

Apollo has completed several successful training classes and preceptorships in the past couple of months and has now added new class training dates for November and December in Cleveland, OH, Dallas, TX and Atlanta, GA. And for those who cannot make a training class but desire the industries’ most comprehensive training, Apollo’s preceptorship program brings this same safe training directly to your practice.

Whether in a class or a preceptorship, Apollo continues to keep attendees, trainers, models and staff as safe as possible with the following precautions:

1. Everyone at the training, attendees, models, trainers and staff is tested utilizing an FDA-authorized EUA Serology test.
2. Temperature is taken at the door each day for everyone involved in the training.
3. Masks are worn at all times by trainers and attendees and by models not getting lower facial treatments.
4. Gloves will be replaced after each treatment.
5. All hard surfaces and treatment beds are sterilized with UVC light devices.
6. Hand sanitizer is used and available at all times.

“We take our commitment to providing quality education to the medical community extremely seriously and, therefore, in addition to the world-class training experience you have come to expect from Apollo, we have added safety protocols to provide the safest training environment possible,” said Randy Wright, CEO, Apollo Med Innovations, Inc.

All Apollo classes feature superior didactic information taught by experienced, practicing physicians, extensive hands-on training on multiple models provided by Apollo and covering multiple modalities as well as utilization of the full line of Miracu PDO threads.
