The United States has immigrants from all over the world. People that speak many different languages. Many of these immigrants are involved in immigration legal cases, where documents in foreign languages are produced and must be translated to become evidence.

These documents may be financial, private property-related, educational records, wills, or court decisions. We offer legal translation and will quickly translate all these records, considering the differences in culture and context. All our translations are certified by the ITU's Team.

Our translators are affiliated with the American Translation Association, so our clients can be assured of the accuracy and quality of the work.

We will analyze the requirement to provide a quote and also specify the time for delivery of the translated document.
