ORLANDO, FLORIDA, UNITED STATES, October 26, 2020 /EINPresswire.com/ -- OrlandoJobs.com's virtual “Live” Diversity Job Fair occurs on November 17th and 18th, 2020, with a preview day for registered job seekers on November 16th. Presented with Orange County Mayor Jerry Demings and numerous community partners, this event will feature 65 Central Florida employers with jobs in over twelve sectors. For job seekers, this is the only hiring event where they will have the ability to directly set a video interview with the hiring companies.

“COVID-19 has rocked the job world in Orlando. Job seekers are applying to jobs but not hearing back from the employer. This event turns this around. Job seekers will be able to find a job and directly set a video interview with that employer,” states Roger Lear, President of OrlandoJobs.com. “For job seekers struggling to get interviews, this event will give them access to Central Florida employers who are ready to hire.”

In addition to live interviews, this virtual event will feature career experts on relevant topics to ensure they have the information they need to get a job during this live virtual event. Career sessions will include resume optimization, video interviewing preparation, and job searching techniques. This event will also offer live resume reviews and numerous community partners who feature resources to help job seekers. Programs offered include help for veterans, disabled, criminally challenged, those with financial issues, job seekers needing to upskill, and so much more. Central Florida has tremendous resources and programs dedicated to helping job seekers get meaningful employment.

Job seekers can set live video interviews directly with over 65 employers. During COVID-19, this is a powerful way to connect job seekers with Orlando employers!”
