Federal, investor and state mortgage lending and servicing requirements are very fluid, and it is not only critical to have an efficient technology platform from an operational standpoint but ensuring that updates are detected, reviewed and correctly applied is the first step in providing exceptional risk management.

"IndiSoft's consultative approach to implementing critical risk management technology was an important factor in our selection process," said Thomas Marlowe, senior vice president of administration.

Mortgage requirements are constantly changing and mortgage lenders' costs to stay updated are increasing, particularly with the onslaught of COVID-19 related changes.

"IndiSoft has not only focused on technology-driven efficiencies but has placed particular emphasis on its regulatory change management process (RCM)," said Cam Melchiorre, president and director of regulatory compliance for IndiSoft. “We employ innovative technology in the discovery, review and implementation of changes. Essentially, we provide curated content within our client’s business scope.”
