

NATIONWIDE TREASURE HUNT WILL AWARD 4 PRIZES of $10,000 to WINNERS

"The Great U.S. Treasure Hunt" will have $40,000 in prizes, hide four ordinary items in public, each worth $10,000 to the finder

AUSTIN, TEXAS, UNITED STATES, November 6, 2020 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The e-book "The Great U.S. Treasure Hunt," available now exclusively at Amazon, provides readers a chance to decode messages that lead hunters directly to one of four items hidden somewhere in the 48 continental United States.

Four lucky finders will win $10,000 each.

These objects are hidden but not buried, according to Jeff Kessler, the Hunt's president. "We've chosen four great locations to hide four ordinary items," Kessler said. "They are all at least 500 driving miles from each other, and the two farthest are separated by almost 2,000 miles."

Providing a safe, fun adventure is a prime concern, according to Kessler.

"The e-book contains clever clues, codes, and messages that, when decoded, direct you to an exact location somewhere in the 48 continental United States," he added. "The items are just hidden, not buried. So don't bring a shovel!"

Four items. Four locations. Each worth $10,000 to the finder."

Jeff Kessler

No items are within 50 feet of a body of water, or require climbing or physical exertion. Each location has free parking with no entry fees. Travel to the location and finding the actual item is required to win each $10,000 prize.

Kessler went on to describe the Hunt as "a real-life adventure, fun for the whole family." Because all of the clues will be in an e-book, he said, sleuths of all ages can enjoy trying to “crack the code” to find their riches.

And unlike the Forrest Fenn or “The Secret” treasure hunts, which each dragged on for over a decade, “The Great U.S. Treasure Hunt” will be wrapped up relatively quickly. “If we don’t have a winner after just 60 days,” Kessler explained, “We’ll start dropping clues on our social media pages. We want winners fast!”

“The Great U.S. Treasure Hunt” e-book is available for pre-order now at $7.77, and will download to readers’ Kindle devices or Kindle app on Friday the 13th of November.
