About Crank & Boom Craft Ice Cream

In 2011, Crank & Boom founders Toa and Mike Green were looking for a creative dessert to serve in their family's Thai restaurant when they purchased a 2-quart ice cream machine and churned up the first batch of what would eventually become Kentucky's most sought after small-batch ice cream. When their restaurant customers started showing up just for dessert, however, the couple decided to close the restaurant and go all-in on ice cream.

Today, Crank & Boom's two locations in Lexington, KY serve up their signature line of ice cream, weekly small-batch flavors, homemade toppings and sauces, sundaes, and boozy ice cream cocktails. These ice cream flavors incorporate the bounty of Kentucky's farms, orchards, breweries, and distilleries, as well as international ingredients like taro and black sesame in an homage to Toa's Thai heritage, their team's connection to the community, and the couple's international travels.
