

Holapick Launches Animal Printed Pattern Sweatshirts and Dresses

Holapick launches animal printed pattern sweatshirts and dresses. It looks cute for animal lovers.

HONG KONG, CHINA, November 9, 2020 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Holapick, an online fashion store for women, launches colorful sweatshirts with a printed animal pattern. Women love this pattern because it looks cute. They can get a sweatshirt with the pattern of their favorite animal. The pattern of the shirt makes them more eye-catching than women who wear plain shirts. The manager of the store explained, "Nowadays, women can't only find sweatshirts with cat and dog images but also giraffes, bees, cows, horses, and many more. The option gives women who love animals to collect more sweatshirts. They have an opportunity to pick their favorite image and wear the sweatshirt confidently."

The images on the sweatshirts are also different in their type of pattern. Some animal pictures are cartoon pictures, whereas some others are using tie-dyeing and printing. The manufacturers make the animal pictures look attractive, unique, and attractive by applying different skin color or pattern than the original one. The manager added, "We love to see something creative. It gives customers something new and out of the box. That's why we try to offer sweatshirts with a variety of animal printed patterns. It may be a good campaign for women who love animals."

Another thing that makes a sweatshirt eye-catching is the combination of the shirt's color and the color of the animal picture. Dress manufacturers or designers also do the same trick to make their products look outstanding and extraordinary than others. Instead of putting the animal's picture, dress manufacturers love to use the most eye-catching point of the animal. Let say some dresses are using leopard-skin patterns though customers can also find a dress with a cat or dragonfly image. The manager explained, "The combination between the model of the dress and pattern will create an amazing product. We expect that women get their favorite products from our dresses for sale collection. We try to find unique shirts and dresses and upload them to the catalog regularly."

The store also offers special offers such as a discount price for those who buy specific fashion products, including shirts and dresses with an animal printed pattern. The discount percentage starts from 45% to 75% and even more. The purpose is to make sure that customers get all their favorite products because they still have enough money due to the low price deal. There will be more and more animal printed pattern fashion products in the store with a variety of models.
