November 12, 2020 /

EINPresswire.com/ -- Global Clinical Trial Ancillary Supply Chain (CTASC) leader Ancillare, LP, the first and only Life Sciences company dedicated to Ancillary Supply Chain for Phase I-IV clinical research, today announced it has appointed Georgia Crozier, OD, MS as a Medical Director to serve on its growing Clinical Development Team.

Dr. Crozier will leverage years of experience at multiple clinical sites to serve as a Subject Matter Expert for clinical trial planning and execution. Working directly with Ancillare’s internal teams and with Sponsors, Dr. Crozier will consult on matters of compliance for robust CTASC design.

Ophthalmologic studies tend to be highly specialized with a broad range of supply and equipment needs, and we are excited to have Dr. Crozier’s expertise in-house for our Sponsors and clients.”

Dr. Joanne Santomauro, Chief Executive Officer, Ancillare, LP

An optometrist who has worked at a number of clinical sites, Dr. Crozier brings over 35 years of experience in her field — as a clinical investigator, medical consultant, and lecturer. She is a graduate of Pennsylvania College of Optometry at Salus University, and currently serves as the Director of the Moore Eye Institute Vision Rehabilitation Center.

“We are thrilled to bring on Dr. Crozier as a Medical Director,” said Dr. Joanne Santomauro, Chief Executive Officer. “Expanding our Clinical Development Team will further streamline the selection of ancillary supplies that meet increasingly demanding protocols and ever-changing global regulations. Ophthalmologic studies tend to be highly specialized with a broad range of supply and equipment needs, and we are excited to have Dr. Crozier's expertise in-house for our Sponsors and clients."

Dr. Crozier will serve as Medical Director alongside Dr. John Fitzgerald, who was recently appointed to the same role. The two physicians will work as a team and leverage their individual areas of expertise to better serve Ancillare's Sponsors.
