

HouseMaster® Home Inspections' Military Veteran Owner Scott Henschen Celebrated, Shares Words of Wisdom

Honored as an exemplary veteran franchise owner, Henschen shared with HouseMaster what it means to be a veteran and the importance of Veterans Day

DOVER, DELAWARE, USA, November 10, 2020 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Recognized for its commitment to those who served, HouseMaster — the original home inspection franchise — salutes veterans every day, but especially on this Veterans Day. Recognized by Entrepreneur Media as one of the Top Franchises for Veterans and by Franchise Business Review as a leading franchise for veterans, HouseMaster gives tribute to Air Force retiree Scott Henschen on this year's Veterans Day.

"We're so proud of what Scott has done for our country and so happy HouseMaster is the franchising business he decided to launch," said Kathleen Kuhn, President and CEO of HouseMaster. "Our veterans have proven to be leaders within our system. They embrace our culture and inspire all of us in the HouseMaster family. Scott has an extraordinary story to tell and I'm pleased he chose to build memories with HouseMaster."

Henschen spent more than 20 years in the Air Force, starting as a flight mechanic and later becoming a flight engineer. After retiring in 2014, Henschen was a systems expert for a major defense contractor before launching out on his own as a HouseMaster franchise owner.

“I wanted an ownership role and to be able to succeed in my own work. The ability to adapt and deal with so many different personalities is crucial, and I dealt with a lot of personalities in the Air Force too,” Henschen said. “With my HouseMaster franchise, every buyer, every agent is a little different. Being able to adapt and meet their needs is important.”

After doing his due diligence and shadowing a nearby HouseMaster owner in 2017, Henschen realized this was the right franchise for him. Henschen said his business continues to grow since launching a little less than two years ago. And, skills he learned in the Air Force help him as he expands his business.

With over 20 years under his belt in the armed forces, and hopefully many more with his franchise, Henschen is thankful for HouseMaster’s commitment to veterans. He said he looks forward to making many more new memories with his franchise in Delaware.
