BOWIE, MD, US, November 14, 2020

ASUAVEPRODUCTION has announced the launch of their new website. The latest design is more creatively expressive of showcasing their visual projects. Since being founded in 2019 by current Princeton film student Michael Osei-Wusu (artistry name Indigo Suave), the company has managed to finance and produce music videos along with other visual projects. Although being led by a young director with a small team, their approach to visual storytelling and their conceptualization of ideas to real life is unique. Indigo Suave stated, "It is not big budgets that make great visuals, but grand ideas with the knowledge to execute. And knowledge is priceless".

With a rapidly increasing interest and practice of CGI & 3D, ASUAVEPRODUCTION potential in the next coming year is very exciting. "There would no longer be any boundaries in the creation process," Suave explained, "To manifest anything your mind sees is a limitless and unbelievable power." In the next coming month, ASUAVEPRODUCTION is expected to announce a couple of projects to close out the 2020 year.
