

San Diego Community Assist (SDCA) Will Have A Thanksgiving Food Drive and Turkey Giveaway This Month

SAN DIEGO, CALIFORNIA, USA, November 16, 2020 /EINPresswire.com/ -- San Diego Community Assist, (SDCA) a San Diego nonprofit, is pleased to announce that they will be having a Thanksgiving food drive and turkey giveaway this November 24th and November 25th, respectively. The organization aims to raise \$20,000 to offer 500 turkeys to police officers and first responders and 1,500 meals to homeless, veterans, and COVID impacted individuals.

The San Diego regional economy noticed a downturn because of the coronavirus pandemic, resulting in an official recession. Most in the region have suffered from difficulties. With an estimated 176,000 workers still unemployed because of the epidemic, lower-income workers tend to be out of work as the crisis continues. San Diego Community Assist believes in strengthening the quality of life in San Diego, California, by offering social, educational, medical, and business services to people in need and offering career building and training opportunities.

The essence of Thanksgiving is to gather in social settings and share this memorable holiday's mutual pleasure. Times when the coronavirus has destroyed so many Americans' lives and affected lives in massive ways, these holidays will be the toughest for many people. Therefore San Diego Community Assist aims to offer 500 hams and turkeys to police officers, first responders and 1500 meals to the homeless and people affected by the pandemic.

Hosting a food drive and turkey giveaway is an small way to get involved in helping to make a difference."

San Diego Community Assist helps resolve homelessness, help students and teachers with education programs, offer employment aid, and help with the current housing shortage. The nonprofit organization also strives to lower the crime rate by designing services and programs to bridge law enforcement and the community gap.
