

After Helping Thousands Across the Globe, Domestic Abuse Survivor Takes Action to Break the Cycle Here in the U.S.

Through her nonprofit organization, Unsilenced Voices and speaking on stages worldwide, Michelle Jewsbury's mission is to help victims repair their lives

STUDIO CITY, CA, UNITED STATES, November 17, 2020 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Over 20,000 women have been murdered due to domestic violence since 2003. Unsilenced Voices founder Michelle lewsbury nearly became one of those women. For years, Michelle was trapped in the domestic abuse cycle. She walked on eggshells around her partner, suffered his violent blow ups, and tried to believe his apologies. Instead of being accountable, her abuser worked to keep Michelle isolated and silent. In December of 2015 she summoned the strength to break that cycle, leave her abuser, and share her story. Now, Michelle works to combat domestic and gender-based violence on a global scale as the founder and CEO of Unsilenced Voices

Michelle is a trusted, essential asset to millions worldwide, coaching and empowering people who have experienced extreme difficulties and unforeseen circumstances. Her passion is to empower, encourage, and enlighten individuals to create massive success in business and personal relationships and to develop essential lifelong skills to overcome obstacles so they can impact the world. She has a very successful background in sales and marketing and has spent over 10 years collaborating with successful business owners increasing sales, productivity, and overall success. She is an innovator with a remarkable ability to use her story to help others navigate through life.

Unsilenced Voices: A survivor organizes resources to help others to break free

Unsilenced Voices is integral to Jewsbury's mission to end domestic violence worldwide. Operating in Ghana, Sierra Leone, Rwanda and soon in USA, the organization works with partners to implement shelters, sensitization programs and pro bono legal assistance through a network of attorney volunteers. Additionally, vocational training, medical and counseling are provided for victims of domestic abuse and sexual gender-based violence.

A large part of Unsilenced Voices' mission is collaborating with existing organizations to educate the community. "As a society, we need to stand up and speak up together. We want women to know how to get out. They don't have to stay where they are. In addition to escaping to shelters, they need to know how to file restraining orders, how to create a resume and fill out job applications," says Jewsbury.

Join Unsilenced Voices, Women's Legacy of Hope, and affiliate partners in providing education and resources to the community and survivors of domestic violence in the USA in 2021 for a Domestic Violence Awareness Tour.
